

Using a story board, plan out a suspense story. Use the suspense words or sentence starters to help you.

1. Set the Scene.

Where is your story set? How can you build that picture in the reader's head?

2. Explain the problem.

Who is involved, what has happened, and why it is a problem?

3. Build the tension.

Add drama like a ticking clock or worse case scenarios.

4. Throw a spanner in the works. The climax.

Disrupt the story by adding a new complication. Add to the tension and keep the reader guessing.

5. Start bringing all the story lines together.

Provide some answers and slow the action down a little.

6. Conclusion.

How does it all end? Remember any characters you have written about and how it ended for them.

1. Set the Scene          Where is your story set? How can you build that picture in the reader's head? <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/>	2. Explain the problem.          Who is involved, what has happened, and why it is a problem? <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/>
3. Build the tension.          Add drama like a ticking clock or worse case scenarios. <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/>	4. Throw a spanner in the works. The climax.          Disrupt the story by adding a new complication. Add to the tension and keep the reader guessing. <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/>
5. Start bringing all the story lines together.          Provide some answers and slow the action down a little. <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/>	6. Conclusion.          How does it all end? Remember any characters you have written about and how it ended for them. <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/>

1. Set the Scene

Where is your story set? How can you build that picture in the reader's head?

---

---

---

---

---

2. Explain the problem.

Who is involved, what has happened, and why it is a problem?

---

---

---

---

---

3. Build the tension.

Add drama like a ticking clock or worse case scenarios.

---

---

---

---

---

4. Throw a spanner in the works. The climax.

Disrupt the story by adding a new complication. Add to the tension and keep the reader guessing.

---

---

---

---

---

5. Start bringing all the story lines together.

Provide some answers and slow the action down a little.

---

---

---

---

---

6. Conclusion.

How does it all end? Remember any characters you have written about and how it ended for them.

---

---

---

---

---